One faculty member will be named the 2022 Associate Professor of the Year. The awardee will receive $4,000 in recognition of outstanding contributions to Brooklyn College’s rich academic and intellectual community through their teaching, scholarship, and service.

President Anderson and Provost Lopes established this award to acknowledge the important role mid-career faculty play in sustaining the vitality of the college.

The 2022 Award for the Associate Professor of the Year will be presented at the conclusion of the 25th Annual Faculty Day Conference in May. For more information visit www.brooklyn.cuny.edu/facultyday.
Eligibility
Associate professor in good standing, with an active appointment during Spring 2022.
• Tenured or recommended by the president for tenure by the time of the application deadline.
• Faculty may apply for only one of the college-wide awards per year

Nominations/Self-nominations
Submit by Monday, February 28, 2022. It is easy to nominate! Faculty and academic administrators can submit names using the Online Nomination Form. Nominators will be asked to write letters of recommendation to be submitted by the supporting materials deadline. Self-nominations are welcome.

Application and Supporting Materials
By Monday, March 21, 2022, nominees must submit the following supporting materials via the Dropbox File Request specific to this award:
1. Completed Application Form
2. Evidence of contributions to the college in terms of teaching, research and service—with a focus on the most recent two years in the rank of associate professor.
3. Curriculum vitae

E-mailed materials will not be accepted; use the Dropbox link specific to this award. Applications can include links to web-based material along with instructions for how to view them.

Selection
The awardee will be selected by the president and provost.